Dear Mr. McHugh:

At the current time EPA's consultant NUS Inc., is in the midst of evaluating data on the "Pine Swamp" site. An on site inspection was undertaken on May 15 & 16 and water samples were taken at that time. These samples are now in the process of being tested for a wide variety of chemicals. Unfortunately, no data is yet available. However, a recent phone call to NUS revealed that while a full investigation is under way there need be no immediate concern over Lake Whitney Water quality.

As soon as we review the first draft of the site inspection report by NUS Inc., expected the end of the month, we will notify you of the findings.

Sincerely

Steven P. Farrick
